

Please do NOT allow financial institutions to make telephone calls to consumers after they end the consumer ends their relationship with the financial institution. There are plenty of advertising opportunities that financial institutions can utilize without resorting to telemarketing; especially with their deep pockets. Consumers sign up their households on no-calls lists for a reason. If ANY entity cannot respect my wish to not be disturbed by a telemarketing call then I certainly won't respect them enough to give them my business. Don't cave in to corporate pressure; respect the people who do not want to be annoyed by telemarketers.
